RE-QUEST

It was December 1977, thirty years back, the small booklet 'Satyavani' which was written in Telugu by Sri Sri Sri Sadguru Bhagavan Satyananda Maharshi was translated into English and published. Sri M.V.R. Sarma, M.A., B.Ed., Principal, M.R. College, Vijayanagaram had with great bhakthi towards his Guru Sri Maharshi done this job with devotion in a week's time paving the way for publication in English. Since then two more times this great book was reprinted & 10,000 copies adored the pockets of the people.

As the disciples, devoties and jignasus (seekers of the truth) are constantly pressing for publication of this small book again, we now get it reprinted for the benefit of one and all, particularly Sadhakas. Sri Maharshi with his practical knowledge (Anubhava Jnana) preached the truth of life & goal of life, in small sentences to all those who wanted to know the Ultimate Truth.

To have an adequate knowledge of self and self realisation the entire matter has been rearranged item wise so that the subject can be understood easily without confusion. This pocket book serves as guide at all times for the Sadhakas. We hope and wish that every body who goes through this book will be benifited immensely with the grace of Sri Sri Sri Sadguru Bhagavan Satyananda Maharshi.

Please keep your pocket filled with this book as a hand guide.

PREFACE

"SATYAVANI" is the divine voice of Bhagawan Sree Satyananda Maharshi. By God's grace now we are able to publish this in English and we are offering our pranams to Maharshi. Sree Maharshi's life history in brief is given at the beginning of this book, for it will be of immense value and guidance to those who wish to know about His Holiness. This is published in this pocket size so that all the believers of God can keep it with them and read as and when possible and derive happiness. Sree Mantha Venkata Ramana Sarma had his first darshan of Sree Satyananda Maharshi on the holy Maha Sivarathri Day of 1973. Since then he has been serving His Holiness with great faith and devotion. By the initiation of Bhagawan Sree Satyananda Maharshi to translate "Satyavani" from Telugu to English; Sree Sarma translated it with great persistence, servitude and without expecting any benefit (Nishkama Bhavam). By this work he helped a great deal in spreading the divine voice of Sree Satyananda Maharshi to those who do not know Telugu language and won the divine grace of Sree Maharshi and his birth has become blessed.

OPINION

Sri Vasantarao Venkata Rao, Retd. Principal, M.R. College, Vizianagaram.

"Satyavani" is the divine voice of Bhagawan Sri Satyananda Maharshi. Vedantic truths are eternal. They have been handed over to successive generation, for some thousands of years. Vedanta has said the last word about man, universe and creation. It cannot be improved upon. Even new knowledge acquired by Science is subjected to severe limitations with the result that Vedanta stands unique and unchallenged.

Truth is one but the ways of expression are many. The basic idea of human existence is that man is a chip of the primordial block, God and he ultimately has to find his rest in Him. The cycle of birth and death is consequence of Karma and no living being could afford to be quite without doing Karma even for a second in this dynamic universe. Action has its own reaction. In the case of life the reaction though born along with action takes some time to manifest itself. There is a time lag and as such man may quit the world before experiencing the reaction. The laws of conservation require that he suffer the reaction and consequently a new birth follows. Moksha is freedom from birth and death. A code of conduct and discipline is enunciated by seers long ago who developed the extra sensory perception and dived deep into the secrets of the universe and role of life in it.

The path to be followed by a mokshaardhi is hard and tortuous. It requires unremitting endeavour on the part of Sadhaka. An amount of preserverance with caution is not too much. The hero of the drama seems to be the mind which even deludes the wisemen, and leads the Sadhaka to ruin. The Sadhaka is warned of the many dangers he is likely to encounter in his journey to the goal. He is exhorted to be vigilant and dynamic never to think of rest.

SATYAVA NI

Satyavani is a collection of such exhortations. They are short, simple, direct and effective. For example See teachings 20, 146, 155 and 164.

This pocket book is a valuable companion in the life's journey. A reference to it in times of depression and agony elevates the mind and turns open the gates of wisdom.

MAHARSHI

Bhagawan Sree Satyananda Maharshi was born on 16th February, 1912 at Bhuvangiri Town, now in Andhra Pradesh. His father's name is Sree Vemuri Chidambara Sastry and his mother's name is Subbalakshmi Devi. Sree Maharshi was named after Satyanarayana by his parents. Since his childhood he had been struggling hard for God realization. While reading in educational institutions; he was spending a lot of time in studying spiritual scriptures and books. Since his boyhood he believed Bhagawat Gita as his mother and he determined to spend his life basing on the sacred teaching of the Gita. There was a remarkable and wonderful turn of events in his life in 1929. While he was coming home, back from the riverbed of Suvarnamukhi at his village Vakadu in summer holidays, he had an eternal sensation that he was different from the body. His wife Smt. Padmavathi Devi was a women of high spiritual calibre and perfection. She had a high regard and divine attitude for her husband and was quite helpful to him in his spiritual life. On 5th February, 1932 Sri Satyanarayana had the Darshan of Bhagawan Sree Ramana Maharshi, the Supreme among those who realized. He having received the eternal blessings of Bhagawan Ramana Maharshi of Arunachalam (Tiruvannamalai) got rid of all the doubts he had in the spiritual way of life, and began very great penance. Being ordered by Bhagawan Sri Ramana, he returned home, earned his livelyhood in the right way, maintained his family and also continued the spiritual Yoga.

In 1933 his wife Smt. Padmavathi Devi had illness and the soul left her body while contemplating on her husband who was physically, spiritually her great guru and devotionally her God. Afterwards in 1934, October 17th, Vijaya Dasimi Day he took up 'Sanyasa Ashramam' leaving Grihastashramam and was known as Satyananda Teertha Swamy. Since then he had done intense penance besides observing total silence. On 3rd December 1934 he established a holy Ashramam named Sri Satyananda Asramam at Inamadugu Village, Nellore Dt. Andhra Pradesh. There for ten years with great self devotion he had done an unbroken penance and had attained complete Yoga Siddhi i.e., spiritual realization, on 27th September 1944 and since then he had been called as Satyananda Teerdha Avadhuta by one and all. Now and then he visited Sree Ramana Ashramam. On 19-2-1937 Sree Ramana

Jayanti was greatly celebrated at a separate mandiram constructed at his Ashramam in the name of Bhagawan Sree Ramana Maharshi. By the great power of Sri Satyananda's penance and his spirituality Sri Satyananda Ashramam has been improving day by day and attracting lots of people who have spiritual bent of mind. With its aesthetic atmosphere with beautiful and valuable buildings such as Sree Viswa Vijnana Vihar, Sree Anna Poorna Bhawan, Sree Tarakeswara Mandir, Sree

Maharshi Grandhalayam (LIBRARY), Meditation hall,
Santi Kuteer, Sree Venkamamba
Samadhi, Sree Satyananda Vihar, Sree Gowri Sankar Mandir,
Brahmachari Kutirs etc. Sree Satyananda Avadhuta started a spiritual monthly magazine on 1st November 1947 and has been doing spiritual propaganda through it since then. Besides he has established great institutions to promote spiritual and material knowledge in the people such as summer school, library, temple etc. Although he reached the goal of human birth Sree Avadhuta swamy led a simple life. He saw God in all beings and helped them. He never wasted even a single minute and spent his time in serving the poor and the needy, in writing books, in writing essays and articles to the magazines, in correcting proofs etc. He believed that there is no enmity between Jnanam and Karma. To him to work hard and to do manual labour is no disgrace. To water the plants in the Ashram, to cut vegetables, to cook food etc. are some activities in which he also took part. Cleaning of the buildings was done under his personal supervision. Nourishing plants, digging channels, sowing seeds were done very interestingly by him. He served food to visitors to the asramam with his own hands, helped the poor and disabled with divine attitude. For him service to humanity was service to God. Sree Swamiji worked for three hours in the morning in the ashramam garden and earned his bread as any normal man does and led a self contented life. He preached everybody "to kick away laziness and to work hard". He accepted invitations not only from Andhra Pradesh but also from Orissa, Bengal, Bihar, Mumbai and went there to spread his spiritual messages. He had been doing a lot of propaganda to develop Karma, Bhakti, Yoga and Gnana among people. On 1st December 1951 Sri Maharshi installed Sree Tharakeswara Mahalingam in Sree Ramana Mandiram. He established Satyananda Samajams, Bhakta Mandalis in Bombay, Kharagpur, Mumbai, Kisan Nagar etc., Having seen Sree Swamiji's Spiritual power, complete wisdom grandeur, the people of Mumbai and the spiritual Institutions there gave him title such as "BHAGAWAN" and "Maharshi" and greatly honoured and respected him.

Those who want inner peace may visit Sree Satyananda Asramam and have the Darshana of Sri Satyananda Maharshi's adhistana mandiram (Maha samadhi Place) and spend some time in meditation.

Sri Maharshi had been propagating the Gita throughout his life. He gave discourses on the gita with great dedication and enthusiasm and elaborately so as to be understood by the common man also. His lectures have been tape recorded by his disciples in 1964 and are now embedded in MP3 DVD running for 28 hours for the benefit of the jignasus (Seekers of the truth). These are available in Sri Satyananda Ashramam.

Sri Maharshi had written voluminous commentary on Srimadh Bhagavath Gita named “Srimadh Bhagavath Gitamritha Tharangini” which is regarded as one of the greatest Adhyathmic books of recent times. This great book has been published three times and still there is great demand from the public.

Sri Maharshi, thus not only was a mahagnani (realised soul) but also a karmayogi to the core who put his every preaching in action and lived a life of a true sthithapragna. It was because of such practical living he was loved and worshiped by his disciples

and honoured by all those who knew him.

Sri Maharshi, lived for 84 years and left his mortal body on 16-10-1996 (Asveeyuja Suddha Chathurdhi) to become one with paramathma (the almighty). Sri Maharshi's graceful blessings are with all of us forever.

ASHRAMAM

Sree Satyanandashramam was established by Sree Satyananda Maharshi to the east of Inamadugu Village, Nellore Dt. (A.P.) in the year 1934. The Ashramam with its spiritual atmosphere has natural beauty with so many magnificent buildings and Kuteers. It is attracting a great number of Bhaktas from all parts of India.

There are people who come exclusively to visit the Ashramam and there are others who come here on their way to Tirupathi. You can come and visit Ashramam; spend some time and be happy and peaceful.

The Route to reach the Ashramam

Get down in Nellore Railway Station which is in between Vijayawada and Madras. Go to Bus Stand which is very near the station. Catch a bus to Inamadugu and reach the Ashramam which is just seven kilometers from Nellore. RTC and city buses are also plying to this place. The Aasramam is to the East of Inamadugu village.

SATYAVANI

1. Gamyam (The Goal):

1. First think well and then do any work. This is the right way to hoist "Vijayapataka" or the flag of Victory. Those who do not think before and do work carelessly are sure to fall down. Concentrate your mind, senses, intellect and every thing on the assigned task. Then alone 'Vijayalakshmi' or victory adores you.

2. Never forget the goal of your life. This life is not granted for eating food and enjoying sensual pleasures. Everlasting peace is the man's goal. (Parama Santhi)

3. Never forget the goal. Try to march on towards the destination. Maya will try to drag you back from your goal. Be careful! Proceed ahead, not caring for its uproar.

4. Be a worshipper of truth. Follow the principle of abiding to truth in your daily life. Discover the truth with your sharp intellect and critical outlook and realise it.

5. Establish your mind in truth. Let the tongue get accustomed to speaking truth; let your eyes look at truth; let your ears listen truth and let your body be dedicated to the service of truth.

6. Truth and non-violence are the two wheels to the chariot of Dharma. Unless you follow these two good traits equally, the chariot of Dharma does not move and reach the destination safely.

7. Lord Brahma first heard the voice 'Thapas' (Penance). There is no other way except Tapas to reach the spiritual goal. It is impossible to reach the supreme without proper sadhana.

8. You have acquired human birth on account of your purity of your last birth. God realization is possible only in the human birth. Therefore, do utmost to reach the supreme soul while living, so that you need not come back into the world.

9. You have got this holy human birth as a result of the fruition of good acts of your previous births. Is it right to waste this human birth that has been achieved after so much struggle?

10. The sadhaka whose heart becomes shrewd on account of adopting satva guna can spend a lot of time in the spiritual pursuit without any vexation. He can continue spiritual pursuits to reach higher and higher highs with new vigour, new courage and great perseverance, Within a short time he can understand the secrets of eternal truth and reach the goal.

11. You practice to look inwards. There you can see in you the rays of the Eternal. Don't satisfy and stop with that but proceed to reach the Eternal and finally try to merge in the Eternal.

12. Philosophers say that affection and hatred are reproaches and that they should be given up. But I say that one should adopt them preferably with a different outlook. That is with love to God and disregard to worldly things. One who has such qualities will surely reach the destination.

13. By penance you are sure to realize the Supreme being in you. But common people aspire for God realization without even a little effort. Is that ever possible? Have you ever heard or seen that any one either in the past or present attained anything without right effort? Lord Brahma first heard the sounds. 'Thapaha - Thapaha - Thapaha' (Penance - Penance - Penance) and he did penance and realised God.

14. Sree Buddha, Sankara, Ramanuja, Madhva, Rama krishna, Vivekananda, Ramana, Brahmanandatheertha who are incarnations on earth also did penance and showed the path to attain salvation. You also do penance as they did, realize God and swim across the ocean of family life (samsara) full of births and deaths and reach the shore of salvation.

15. O man! Have you realized how much difficult it is to be born as a human being? There is no need to think critically about it. Can't you understand this much when you see creatures such as animals, birds and such others which have no wisdom? It is possible to see God only in this birth. Do vigorous spiritual activity to attain birthless supreme state and be successful.

O! My children keep the hands in work; tongue in keertan and God in the Heart and march on to the goal, right now.

2. MANASA, INDRIYA, KRIYA (Mind, Sense, Action)

16. Develop such qualities as courage, sacrifice, zeal, wisdom peacefulness etc. Don't get discouraged at all, by the obstacles that arise from time to time. Don't forget the proverb "failure is the stepping stone for success", Failure, in fact brings you some experience. Therefore rectify such deficiencies and reach the goal.

17. My son! First of all set right your way of life. Always develop good qualities that promote your mind's enlightenment. Develop such noble traits as truth, non-violence, compassion, nobility, equality etc.

18. Know the essence of all Religions. Don't quarrel with others keeping in mind the outward differences. Get in tune with the broad and mutually accepted ways. The world is a place for different tastes. To think that your thought is true and perfect and that of others is faulty is unwise. Listen to others views patiently, think well and then compare them with those of yours.

19. Discard narrow thoughts and have broad views. Mahatma who has a great heart has no discrimination and egoism. Brother! If you can come out successfully from the net wok of ego you will become independent and develop broad out look - you yourself can become a Mahatma. There is nothing to suspect about this.

20. Sorrows are the result of an untrained and uncontrolled mind. The conquered mind is your friend. The unconquered one is your foe.

21. If you have strong desire to enjoy eternal happiness, leave away the earthly pleasures. Then your mind becomes pure. With that pure heart pray to God. You are sure to have God's blessings. You can easily cross Samsara Sagara.

22. Just as an unused article gets rusted, so also an unexercised body and mind will become inert. Laziness, sleep, inadvertence, ignorance are some of the characteristics of Tamoguna.

23. Hatred is like pest to human life. Hatred is developed by hatred. Hatred can be conquered by love. The religion of love is the religion of the heart and the divine.

24. Always be cheerful. Spend your time in active work coupled with enthusiasm. Never allow fear and cowardice to approach you. Be heroic and courageous and face even mountains of difficulties.

25. Patience in difficulties is desirable. In agreeable times everybody is peaceful. He who retains peace in difficult circumstances is a yogi.

26. Awake! Be courageous. Attain Purusharthas. You can easily reach Moksha which is the ideal of human birth.

27. Love for this body is the root cause for all sorrows. In trying to know about permanency and impermanency of living things the love for body will cease to exist. There you will have the sight of the immortal beings. That is known as emancipation. (Mumukshatvam)

28. Attain control over the sensual organs and then attain control over your mind. Thereby your mind can attain the power of concentration. Keep that concentrated mind steadfastly in the soul and start doing meditation.

29. Be silent for atleast two hours a day. Divert your mind from sensual pleasures and make it subserviant to Atman. Your mind soon runs towards sensual pleasures. Then meditate patiently. After sometime your mind refrains from running towards sensual pleasures and remains in you.

30. Egotism leads to the downfall of man. It puts him to a lot of sorrows; throws him into difficulties, ties him to bondages. The words like life existence, maya, mind are synonyms with egotism.

31. Realise that the mind is responsible for both good and bad. The mind is responsible for both bondage and liberation, happiness and sorrow, gain and loss and success and defeat. It makes one sensible in a minute and in the next minute it makes him senseless. But it cannot conquer a bhakta who always chants the name of God. By practice the impossible become possible. When you jump into water and move your hands quickly. After a time you learn to swim and with that experience you can easily swim across even a big river.

32. People wail aloud for material losses. But how many are there who are crying for wasting the human birth.

33. The time comes when you will get profit by odd ways and your mind strongly incites you to do so, be cautious and courageous and do not detract from the right path. Realise it to be a testing time and be cautious. Use your intelligence and destroy the raging mind. Then you shall have God's blessings. If you yield to the ravages of evil and detract from the path of Dharma you go to perdition.

34. Your mind gains more and more strength provided you show patience in difficulties. Your mind becomes wiser provided you show courage without being confused in times of loss. Your mind becomes critical provided you maintain peace in sorrow. Your mind turns pure provided you exhibit balance at times of defeat. With such a pure mind alone you can worship God.

35. Pray to God both at dawn and dusk. Prayer is food to the mind. Prayer helps keep evils away from you. The mind becomes pure.

36. Live to help the needy. Give up narrow and selfish thoughts and with a broad mind, endeavour for the good of others. Thereby your heart blossoms.

37. Put off laziness. Better use your time in constant endeavor. See that it does good deeds in all ways. If you give your mind any rest it will drag you deep into worldly affairs and causes a lot of sorrow. Beware ! It disturbs your heart and makes it impure.

38. The fire of sorrow burns away the tree of wisdom. Not only that, it dries up man's flesh and muscles and makes him weak. It also sucks his blood and makes him sick. Therefore, sadhaka! Don't fall into the fire of grief and burn to ashes. Be ever cheerful.

39. Iron chains and ropes cannot really bind a man. The only thing that really binds him is strong desire. Man enveloped by desire follows evil path and gets degraded.

40. The period of manhood is like an instrument that can be used either for enlightenment or degradation. If you turn the flow of your thoughts in the right way, you shall be enlightened and if you turn the same towards evil ways you shall be degraded.

41. Mind that become impure by Rajas and Tamas, should be purified by adopting Satvic ways. Such a mind will be shrewd and can grasp the secrets of eternal truth. Therefore, it is the duty of a sadhaka to promote satvaguna.

42. But your sensory organs with great strength cause obstruction to your sadhana. It is difficult to control them. By continuous sadhana for five or six years you attain a state of peace and supreme happiness.

43. Let your thoughts be always pure. Don't give place to evil traits such as falsehood, deceit, anger etc. Out of kindness if you give little space in your heart to them, they will spread over the entire space and push you down to the underworld, (pathala.)

44. Some say 'we could perform great deeds but we pay pranams to Adhyatmic sadhana since it is the most difficult'. However difficult it might be, you should do it without fail. Because it is the most difficult one, it is said to be the best of actions. Is there need to express that there will not be any value for easy work?

45. Your mind is like a gate-keeper. Its duty is not to allow in, thieves and the wicked. But you have to keep at your door a strong one. Otherwise robbers will enter into your house and steal your valuable possessions. A mighty gate keeper will not allow others to enter in. In that way if your mind is strong enough, the enemies such as desire, anger etc., cannot enter in you. If they cannot enter in, how can they steal your diamond of wisdom? Think of it.

46. To gain wisdom one should make a deep enquiry into reality.

Here the enquiry means to know, how is God? What type is He?
What is the way to reach Him?
What is bondage? What is salvation? Is the visible world real? Who am I? Where have I come from? Where do I go? Who sent me? Why was I sent here?
What is the relationship between
He and I? Is action real or unreal?
What is good? What is bad? What is it that I should attain? What would bring me happiness? What would cause sorrow? What is acceptable, What is unacceptable? What type of people do we make friends with and what type of people we keep far away? The discussion to get answer to this type of questions is known as enquiry. (Vicharana)

47. Keep the senses under control. Then God's grace will be showered on you. You become mightiest of the mightiest. Great courage, splendour, enthusiasm will surely become one with you. Thereby there will not be anything that you cannot achieve.

48. You realise that you are responsible for your present joys and sorrows. Both the heaven and the hell are within you. By effort you can make your surroundings a heaven or a hell. God has granted you such power. Your staunch effort as approved by the sastras will grant you eternal happiness. Any effort contrary to that will bring you hell of sorrow.

49. Self conceit or arrogance is the root of all sorrows. Pride is the eldest son of ignorance. Self conceit causes passion; passion causes lust, lust causes action and action brings birth.

50. The ignorant people believe that if a Sanyasi sprinkles holy water from his earthen pot it will awaken man's innate capacities, if one eats the left over of a sanyasi's food it will grant him moksha and the sanyasi's blessings will remove all earthly bondages. To think like that is a great mistake. One can attain moksha only when one closely meditates and experiences what one's great guru has taught him.

51. Know your duty and life's goal. Don't become a slave to sensual enjoyment and spoil your life. Reside in the presence of holy men. Their association is just like a fort that protects you in all respects.

52. The ignorant people do evil deeds secretly and elate with pride, thinking that no one had noticed their deeds. They do not realise that God who is omnipresent is witnessing all their deeds. What a miserable condition it is!

53. If you can conquer the sense of taste all other organs will surrender to you without any effort. For the tongue is like the king of all sensual organs.

54. God is the merciful. He teaches you through your experience that desires are born enemies and the temporary sensual pleasures are the cause of sorrow and unhappiness. Your experiences should teach you lessons. But it is not so. Again you indulge in immoral deeds and involve in danger. How unwise it is! Oh! The power of Maya! Why do you court troubles and sorrows once again? Whose fault is it? It is yours. You are the doer of both good and bad.

55. The period you live in this world is very short. Within this short period don't be called a wicked man. By doing good deeds be called a good man and earn fame.

56. Humility is an ornament to man. Pride is reproachable. The one with pride, when any one points out his defects, becomes intolerant and quarrelsome. One's humility adds splendor to one's education, wealth and behaviour.

57. As water flows out of a pot with holes so also the spiritual knowledge will not remain in man's heart who has no control over senses.

3. KARMAYOGA (Service) :

58. Desireless Karma Yoga is supreme. Unmindful of the result, keep faith in God and do your Karma. Always be prepared to serve. Serve with pure love and divine attitude. Don't get vexed while serving others. Serve whole heartedly. When there is a chance to serve, don't lose it. Await such golden opportunities.

59. Dedicate your life wholly for service to others. Be prepared to sacrifice your life even, in doing service to others. Be active, enthusiastic and serve the society.

Pray to God to grant you life that does not create trouble to others.
60. Oh! Sadhakas! (those who are clever at expediments) Serve Mahatmas (being one with the supreme spirit, pervading the universe) and know the real nature of the human soul and attain salvation. Go to pious ashramas and do desireless service to your might. Do even mean jobs with pleasure in service do not discriminate low and high.
Clean the Ashramams which are "Punyabhumulu" (holy lands).

Water the flower plants and fruit plants in the Ashramas and help them grow. In punya Ashramas do service such as drawing water from wells, cooking, serving food, even cleaning utensils. Realise that the above service is for others benefit and do it with Brahmabhavam (the feeling of serving the Supreme being). Viewing it as Divine work, complete it happily. Don't do it with vexation that you are bound to do it. By service, your mind will mature. Your way of life will be reformed. Your life will shine with new splendour. In that case, during the serving period do not allow anger and arrogance to enter your mind. Don't allow even a little selfishness to get into you. Don't crave for the fruits of your work.

61. Don't give room in you for the thieves such as relationship, partiality etc. For service complete dedication is essential. Your duty is to keep faith in God and serve. Whatever work you are asked to do by your Sadguru, a Mahatma, fulfil that work with respect and without questioning, despite any difficulties.

62. Work is worship (Eswarapuja). Nishkama Karma Yoga and Bhakti Yoga; these two are like two rails on which the spiritual chariot (Adhyatma Ratha) moves. If both these rails are parallel the train moves, otherwise it falls to one side. In that way the human being should perform both the Karma and worship equally. Gradually the Sadhaka understands that doing work is worshipping God.

63. Try to lead a happy life; If you develop laziness it completely ruins you. Do any good work whole heartedly. This is the secret of 'Karma Yoga'.

64. Treat others prosperity as your own prosperity. Learn to serve others with pure love and Divine sense, do service to the living beings. While serving others, do not lose your temper, get disgusted or perturbed yourself. Do service peacefully and whole heartedly. Serve with courage, enthusiasm, zeal and pure mind.

65. By selfless service both you and others who receive your services will be benefited. Other Yogas do not give benefit like this for both the doer and the receiver. If you water a plant you and the plant are benefited. It is physical exercise to you and food to the plant, so also selfless work has mutual benefit. It is the highest.

66. Mahatmas always do work. By doing selfless work they are showing the right path for others to follow. Because they are full of love, compassion, they are always trying to remove troubles, difficulties etc. of others. That is their innate characteristic. If you desire peace, you should follow their way of life.

67. One who works for some hours a day for his family is a normal man. One who works for all the twenty four hours for the uplift of universal family is a Mahatma. One who does not move and sit lazily is believed to be a sage or a philosopher by the common people. Such a man thinks it is below his dignity to do any work. This is not the characteristic of a sage. Restless service alone is the only supreme characteristic of a Mahatma or a saint.

68. Do even the mean work with divine attitude. Didn't Mahamed carry big stones on his shoulders and help to construct mosques? Didn't Gandhiji do scavenging, cleaning utensils with great interest and purity? Didn't Bhagawan Ramana Maharshi cut vegetables, do gardening, prepare hand sticks etc. with purity and peace? My child! keep them as your ideals and proceed on your spiritual journey.

69. Love all the beings whole heartedly. Serve them as divine souls. Do service with care treating their difficulties as yours. Don't show only lip sympathy. That will not be of any help to anybody. Have pure and large heart and serve others with love and affection.

70. Give away what you have to the needy. By sacrifice only the eternal peace will be attained quickly. By giving (charity) of food, clothes and medicines, the soul begins to blossom. Finally by jnana dana (giving knowledge) complete vikasa is attained. That is said to be universal love.

71. Never expect reward.
Expecting rewards is the nature of mean people; Do Karma (duty) for duty's sake. The reward will follow you as a faithful dog does.

72. Serve the poor and the disabled as you serve God.
Service is the duty of man. God will bless you by service only.
May your thoughts be noble and high and your deeds be supreme.

73. Sacrifice is the king of all good qualities. Out of your riches give a part as charity. Think well and donate it to educational institutions, Religious Ashramas and other allied institutions. Who knows the money hoarded by miserliness goes, whether to thieves or rulers. Therefore, utilise your money for good causes now itself, with your own hands, and attain prosperity.

4. BHAKTHI (Faith in Guru, Devotion to God, Love for beings)

74. It is essential to have immense faith in your Guru. Nowadays sadhakas have no complete faith in their Guru, sastras and God. Therefore, they are unable to progress in the paths of Bhakti and Jnana.

75. Guru should protect his disciple as he protects his own son by teaching him Jnana with affection. The disciple should have immense Bhakti and confidence in his Guru and adhere to his orders and fulfil them.

76. The wind of Sadguru's blessings drives away the cloud of egotism. Then one clearly sees the soul or Brahman.

77. Those who shed tears for God's darshan (vision) are the fortunate. They cross over Maya and reach God in this birth only.

78. The love you show towards God is known as Bhakti. The love you show for the worldly things is called Moha. Bhakti cuts off the bondage of samsara and grants everlasting peace, whereas Moha binds you to samsara and sinks you in the sea of sorrow.

79. The heart of devotee who loves God and develops it, is as soft and clear as butter. Such a man can never be indifferent when others are in troubles. A hard heart could never be a source of Bhakti. Treating your neighbours with equanimity and serving them is true bhakti. There is no scope for selfishness in true love. The love of Gopikas towards Krishna is worth following.

80. Love is divine law. One who cannot be conquered in any other way can easily be conquered through love in no time. An ordinary man cannot realise the strength of love. It is infinite, Love is God. In love there is no high and low, God loves you and teaches you how to love the world. One who cannot desirelessly love and serve the world, is not fit to receive God's blessings.

81. I stretch my hands and embrace the universe with love. The whole universe is my body. The deficiency of Dharma anywhere in the universe is the sickness of my body.

82. This large universe is my home. All the people are my relatives. I serve everybody without minding, their sect, religion, caste, colour etc. To do good to all is my religion. That is my state of happiness.

83. After some time your friends may become your enemies. Your relatives develop enmity and try to take revenge on you. The wealth you possess will leave you and go elsewhere. Your home, fields and gardens may deceive you. But if you seek God's refuge, He will not leave you at any time. God's grace will be uniform at all times and it has no variation. Therefore seek refuge in Him. Worship God whole heartedly. You will be a blessed man.

84. Your Guru's mercy is always with you. But you are not knowing it. Do spiritual pursuit with full faith. Then you can clearly understand how Guru's grace helped you. With Guru's blessings, you can quickly reach the Brahman.

85. By love the most difficult tasks become easy. It is love that promotes both internal and external peace. God is full of love. He cannot be conquered in any other way except through love. (i.e. devotion)

86. In the utterly dark forest of the heart, by God's grace, with the help of the eternal light the path can be seen. It is your duty to go along the path comfortably. Could you not do this much?

87. Take complete refuge in God. Believe firmly that God is mother, father, friend and relative. Surrender at His Lotus Feet all your possessions. Even in dreams don't think that there is something which is yours. Of various ways of Bhakti; self surrender is the most supreme.

88. Worship your favourite deity with leaves, flowers, fruits and water. Offer sandal paste, flowers, water etc. with devotion. Offer your food first to God with devotion and then eat that prasada with full faith. By that, your heart becomes pure. Your sadhanas continue without any obstacles. Gradually you become fit to offer worship mentally. That is supreme worship.

89. You establish your favourite deity in your heart and offer Him water flowers, incense, sandal paste etc., in thought. There after chant the mantra given by your guru.

90. There is no difference at all between your great guru and God. Serve your guru with devotion and faith and attain salvation. If you listen to your guru's preachings with attention and practice them, you will be free from vasanas and attain peace of mind.

91. Where God's name is sung there God is present in person. That place itself is heaven (Vaikuntham). That shines with devotees with great pomp and wealth. When there is strength in your body and when circumstances permit, worship Almighty and attain salvation. When there is strength in your body and when circumstances permit, serve the Almighty and perform pujas chintana, smarana, dhyana, darshan and attain moksha.

92. As the body is mortal, leave affection for it and turn it in the right way. Work hard to reach the goal of life. Then only your life becomes significant.

93. O man! Don't get engulfed in luxuries and forget the Real. Any amount of earthly wealth cannot save you at the time of death. The one that can save you at the time of death is the name of God only. Chant the divine name of God with full faith forgetting yourself.

94. If you could win God's grace with effort, you will be able to cross the ocean of samsara. By God's grace, sorrow changes to happiness, shame changes to honour, poison to nectar, death to life, darkness to light, enmity to friendship, loss to profit, and displeasure to pleasure. Oh! children Remember how powerful it is!

95. Those who have the wealth of Bhakti are really wealthy. Those who have no Bhakti are really poor. The material wealth is by nature perishable. The wealth of Bhakti will never perish. Sacrifice everything and attain such permanent wealth.

96. Worship Him with full faith. God will listen to the prayer that you do with bhakti, and protect you. Proceed with patience and courage in the most noble spiritual way of life. By your great Guru's grace, and blessings of mahatmas you can quickly attain salvation.

97. Pray to God with concentrated mind. You use all your energy for realizing God. Bestow your sense, intellect and everything for God realization.

During nights, have dreams relating to God. In the day time leave all other activities and struggle hard to have darshan of God.

98. The sun, the moon, the fire shine on account of God. There is nothing that can give him light, He is the cause of the whole universe but there is none who is the cause for Him.

99. Faith is essential in material and spiritual ways of life. How is it possible to live in the world and do the work if husband does not believe his wife, the master his servant, the teacher his student? With full faith that there is water everywhere, we are digging a well and enjoying water out of it. With full faith that seeds sprout we are sowing seeds and enjoying the fruit. In that way the faith that there is God everywhere in this visible world is the only means of crossing samsara. Even though we cannot see one thing immediately; cannot we see it after a thorough search? Can you say that there is no ghee in the milk because it is not visible. Don't we see it when the milk is made into curd and churned?

How can you say that there is no water in the earth because it does not appear? If you dig the earth you get water. Can you say that there is no moon in the day time when he does not appear? If you wait till the night, he becomes visible. What authority have you got to say that there are no stars in the sky, because you don't see them in the day time? If you wait you can see them shine in the night. O!
Sadhaka? do sadhana with patience and faith in God. You are sure to realize God.

5. BRAHMACHARYAM(Celibacy)

100. By practising celibacy (Brahmacharya) one gets great power. The real Brahmachari can alone do the work of a hundred people put together. For this Hanuman and Bhishma are the examples.

101. To have patience in difficulties is human quality. Whatever things might happen don't discard patience and courage. When agitated, think of peace which is contrary to it. Use your intelligence and think minutely. Regular contemplation will promote courage. By observing celibacy, you will get plenty of courage and new strength and happiness.

102. Without the practice of celibacy you can't experience the Supreme Being. One who has no control over his senses cannot be called a human being. In ancient times the sages could succeed in doing the most difficult deeds only on account of their strict observance of celibacy (brahma charya) My child! you also observe celibacy and realise the Eternal.

6. DHYANAM (Meditation)

103. It is the quality of a yogi not to waste time on useless activities. Yogi should spend his time in thinking about Atman and in meditation.

104. Recognise your natural dharma. Concentrate your attention on it. Don't care for what people say. In case timidity enters in you, develop courage; with constant meditation go ahead.

105. God is one but the ways of reaching Him are many. Whatever name you chant, whatever form you meditate, bhakti is essential. If you meditate with complete faith and strong devotion, you are sure to have his blessings. There is nothing impossible for one who has God's blessings.

106. Intolerance in all aspects is the sign of your weakness. The nature of a weak person is to be angry even for trifles. Control your mind with prayer, repeating names of diety, and meditation. Then you can be peaceful at all levels.

107. Do meditation both in the morning and in the evening.

Struggle hard and see God. There is no use shouting 'God Realization', 'God Realization' and so on. What is the use of shouting butter, 'butter' when milk is with you? Is it not by converting milk into curd and churning the curd you get butter? 108. The more the practice the easier the meditation becomes. But one has to bear the troubles that come in the beginning and continue spiritual pursuit. The one who wants to learn swimming, should try hard and learn for some days in water. By practice it become easy and he could swim across even a large river.

109. Youth is the right period for performing Tapas. Then one will have enough strength to sit tight on 'asana' and concentrate his mind. Then there are plenty of chances for the gradual development of body and mind.

110. Keep meditating on your favourite deity and chant mantra by moving your lips and without producing any sound. Keep your mind fixed steadily at the Lotus Feet of your favourite deity. Don't give up your sadhanas until you win complete victory. Constant practice makes difficult tasks easy and simple.

111. The moment you sit to meditate, first of all start praying to your guru and then bring your favourite deity into your mind. Imagine that Murti as splendid and handsome one, looking at you with a smile on His face. This feeling will help unfold your heart many ways. Your body will shine with the rays of new light. Your veins grow stronger with new strength. Pure thought will help a great deal for meditation. Without that thought the meditation seems dried and vexatious.

7. JNANAM(Supreme knowledge)

112. Sastra Jnanam alone is not useful. Sadhakas should do practice as taught in Shastram. Sastrajnana which is not in practice is mere waste. Is it not better to see Rishikesh with your own eyes than to hear about it when described? "If you hear you forget; If you see you remember and if you do, you know"

113. Brahavidya or knowledge of the Supreme is not a polypoetical composition. Also, Brahavidya does not teach a way impracticable for practice, It does not promote luxury. Although it looks difficult at the beginning, it becomes easy by gradual and continuous practice. As is practised, nectar springs up and undisturbed diligence forms.

114. Other Sastras describe imaginary events and provide temporary comforts. Spiritual study, although hard to be accomplished in the beginning; if continued and practised without break would grant everlasting happiness. Therefore, Gitacharya Lord Krishna, says of all the branches of education, spiritual education is “He” or He himself is that.

115. Other branches of Knowledge help to grow egoism, get entangled in the bonds of samsara and cause sorrow. Spiritual education destroys egoism, liberates one from bondage and grants happiness.

116. Other branches of education are useful to earn only livelihood. Spiritual education helps to destroy the human body, cut the cycle of births and deaths and liberate one from the problem of livelihood. It is to say that it helps one not to born once again on the earth and gives scope to attain immortality., (Moksha)

117. Other types of education grants fame and goodwill and makes one elate in insolence. Spiritual education keeps one balanced in shame and fame, amidst enemies and friends and makes one incorporeal.

118. Other types of education develop Kama, Krodha, Abhimana etc., and creates quitelessness or peacelessness. Spiritual study supresses the above evil traits and grants quiteness in every day life. Originally it destroys Jeevatvam and grants Brahmatvam. Friendship with the pious is like a mass of wealth. It is like a ship to cross the ocean of Samsara.

119. You acquire the behaviour of your associates. If you associate with bad people you get bad traits and bad habits. If you associate with good people you acquire good traits and good habits. Bad company is the origin of sorrow and bondage whereas good company is the cause of happiness and liberation.

120. The difficult Brahavidya becomes easy by association with virtuous people. If they favour you there will not be anything that cannot be achieved. The sages are givers of happiness.

121. Association with the people of righteousness is very great. Whoever keeps company with them are fortunate because they will be rid of their sorrows.

122. By visiting Mahatmas and holy Ashramas the heart's impurity will be rooted out and become pure. To drive away soka (sorrow); and Moha (fascination); the so called devils, the company of the virtuous is like chanting Mantra to dispel them.

123. Love all the beings whole heartedly. There is nothing that is different from you. God is everywhere shining as a witness. You are God. (Thou art thee!)

124. Know your natural characteristics. "I am Parabrahmam". This is what you should think in your heart and feel unceasing happiness. Then you can free yourself from the wheel of Samsara (birth and death)

125. Subjected to egotism people try for name and fame. When the love for the body dies in you the egotism vanishes.

126. By thinking Dasoham (I am a servant) the bhakta eradicates his egotism. A philosopher eradicates egotism by thinking 'Sivoham' (I am siva)

127. When egotism tries to conquer your heart you should say "O evil egotism. I know your origin and you can no longer delude me. I realise that you are fictitious. I am eternal; what can you do with me?"

128. Bhakti is the seed. Vairagya (dispassion) is the tree. Wisdom is the flower. Realization of God is the fruit.

129. The soul in you is your Guru. With pure mind you listen to the inner voice and drive your life chariot accordingly and reach the target of life (i.e.) Moksham.

130. Realise that where there is Rama there cannot be Kama (desire) and where there is Kama there cannot be Rama. Unless you kill Kama you cannot see Rama. Destroy Kama, the devil, with the sword of wisdom and have eternal happiness by realizing Rama.

131. Mahatma is one who can remain devoid of passions in the midst of wealth, an ascetic in the midst of luxuries, undisturbed in the midst of troubles and cheerful in the midst of enemies.

132. A boy looks at things made of sugar such as parrots, swans, pavilions etc. and thinks them to be different. But his father ignores their shapes and looks at the material which is their cause. In this way an ignorant man thinks that the different shapes are real and gets tied, where as a jnani discards the differences in their shapes and will know the inner paramatma and become free.

133. In the spiritual way of life affection and hatred are powerful enemies. The attachment that one shows towards one's own relatives and things is known as love. Dislike towards others and their belongings is known as hatred. The one who destroys love and hatred and adopts universal love is a Mahatma.

134. Women, men, boys, the old, why, one and all can follow and adopt these sadhanas. All humans can practice spiritual education. For that, honest heart, pure mind, endless self devotion are very essential.

135. Without feeling sorry for the past; concentrate your mind on the present and do karmas. Believe firmly that your future depends on the present. Be heroic and move on the stage of this world. Don't allow cowardice and laziness to approach you.

136. Conquer your mind which is your deadliest enemy. Then you can sit on the throne of the kingdom of your soul and enjoy perennial happiness.

137. Pious people grant eternal peace to those who visit them. Their proximity causes happiness more than the moon light. It removes anxiety like a bath in the Ganges.

138. The sages and the pious spontaneously spread jnana to one and all. By that, Moksha becomes very easy to attain, like 'Ushrika' in one's palm. The great help that the Mahatmas do, cannot be done by friends and relatives. Why! even parents cannot do that much good to you.

139. Having done deeds that lead to sorrow is it possible to secure happiness? You are following the samsara that can lead you to sorrow; but are you trying to know about the soul which can grant you happiness? In that case, think how you can get happiness? Could it be possible for the one that travels towards south to reach Varanasi?

140. When we look at a beautiful building we think of the architect of the building. So also when we see a machine we logically conclude that there should be a builder of that machine. So also a box, a watch, an umbrella, a pen etc. We feel happy at the construction and admire the builders. What prevents you from thinking that there should be a builder for this immense universe full of humans, animals, birds, creatures, oceans, mountains, rivers, trees, creepers etc, which is highly attractive and beautiful? By a simple discussion we can understand that there is one who created the whole universe. If you think critically you can understand the immense power of the creator. If you see Him by saying prayer, chanting his name (nama), meditation and sadhana, will there be any limit for your joy?

141. One who does Sadhana is sure to attain salvation. Without efforts we can't gain anything. People are of three different kinds in the world. Some do spiritual pursuits to see God without being engulfed by maya. Some although they were engulfed by maya they overcome it with their wisdom and live peacefully in their daily life. Some others completely trapped by maya always live in grief. When a hunter spreads his net some birds fly away sensing the coming danger; some others although they fall in it, save themselves with their effort and cleverness. Some others remain in the net without any effort and die in his hands.

142. Don't make friendship with the wicked people. Their association will surely spoil the mind of a person however great he may be and turn it into evil path. Their mind always works in crooked ways and always tends to harm others. Realizing this truth one should go away from them but one should not scold them as they have Paramatma in them too. Although there is God in them, their attributes are very cruel. Although there is God in lion, tiger, snake, their quality is cruelty. Therefore one should not go near them.

8. SODHANA & SADHANA
(Search & Practice)

143. To aspire for name and fame is blameful. Treat glory as equal to poison. Do your dharma. Learn to do it selflessly. Then only you can rise up yourself. Remember this at all times.

144. Do not speak harsh word that hurt others' feelings. Think deeply and then speak just and important words with reverence and softness. Elders believe in limited talk as the secret of success. Speak truth softly, gently and with straight forwardness.

145. Fruitless conversation is a rootworm to the spiritual tree, that completely destroys a Sadhaka.

146. Fear is the greatest sin. Drive away fear and weakness to a long way. Only the courageous people are fit for spritual sadhana.

147. Arise! Be quick! Make fruitful this noble birth. Know that yourself is Brahma and have that divine experience. Put an end to all physical play. What could you do, if you did not get once again this human birth? Can you reach life's goal if you are born as a dog or a donkey? Think deeply for long.

148. If you have absolute faith in God you will have His darshan in no time. Your mind is like clay. You can give it whatever shape you have decided. If you lead it in the right path you attain peace in daily life. If you drive it in the wrong way prolonged sorrow will be yours.

149. Sadhaka! Don't reveal your experiences. Outershow will spoil you and you become a backsliden or one who is excommunicated. Kill away the evil spirit in you with the sword of true knowledge and reach your real state with gradual and real sadhana.

150. As is the foundation to a building so is the ethical behaviour to spirituality. As the building collapses incase the foundation is not strong enough so also the spiritual mansion does not exist permanently if the ethical code is not practised.

151. Removing obstacles such as thorns and rocks from the spiritual path and blossoming it and making it easy and fair is itself moral training. The dharma is that which, while doing no doubts and fear arise. The way that you expect others to behave with you is itself Dharma. By following the Dharma the gunas such as "Thamasa" and "Raajasa" will disappear and Satvika gunas will develop. When satvika gunas fully adore you, you become eligible for adopting spiritual way of life.

152. Truth, non-violence, contentment, celibacy, sacrifice, peace, courage etc. are satvika gunas. The above traits should be developed by constant practice.

Moral training is necessary to acquire these Satvika gunas.

153. Falsehood, violence, desire of carnal gratification, miserliness, anger, harshness, fear, greediness, laziness etc. are Rajasa and Thamasa gunas. The above bad traits will disgrace one and lead one to ruin. They pave way for one to become a backslider here on the earth and there in the heaven. For this the Sadhaka should try to destroy them by effort.

154. Remove any of your bad traits such as duplicity, pride, jealousy, hatred, delusion, ostentation or show crustiness, meanmindedness, selfpraise etc. Go deep, make a thorough search and destroy the seeds of evil nature. Otherwise the spiritual development will be totally a big zero.

155. As the farmer removes weeds to protect and develop the crop, you should root out bad habits and develop good habits to protect yourself.

156. Don't make it a point to find faults in others. Find out your own defects and try to eradicate them. Try to imbibe good from others. If any one talks about others defects don't listen to him; pay a deaf ear and run away from that place. In case any one comes to you and points out your own mistakes, listen to him with rapt attention and take him as your friend, guru and convey your grateful thanks to him. If you have in you any of the bad qualities enumerated by him, eradicate them, if not be indifferent.

157. Get up from bed early morning at 4'o clock which is Brahmimuhoortam. Attend to nature's calls and do physical exercise. Then take bath and pray to God. Do japa and upasana.

158. Earn money in lawful ways. Spend some money for your family and save some money, make it a fund, contribute 20% of your income to spiritual centres and beggars. Don't reduce the amount set apart for charity. If necessary reduce your expenditure on luxuries. Give up going to the cinemas totally. Reduce your expenditure on food, tours, clothes, etc. Be away from bad and dangerous habits such as smoking, coffee, snuff etc. Thereby you can save a lot of money. Make use of that amount for righteous and sacred activities.

159. First of all prepare a budget showing income and expenditure. Think deeply, for a long time and spend money on very essential and important things. Examine critically whether the above are essential to keep up the body or not. Think so minutely and if it is so essential you may spend money on such essentials. Cut short all external show.

160. There are two terms namely 'Body sustenance' and 'Body growth'. Body sustenance means to keep the body alive. You give food and water for strength only, to do righteous deeds, to meditate, to pray to God; to serve humanity etc. Body growth means, to make it avail luxuries so that it becomes intoxicated and lazy. Body sustenance is our duty but not its growth. Sustenance of body is virtuous. Its growth is sin. Sustenance of body gives joy whereas its growth creates sorrow.

161. There are several ways in which money could be accumulated and utilised for good causes. Money could never be bad. It could be said that it is like fire. We have both loss and profit by fire. If you make use of fire to cook food etc. it will give you health. If you utilise it in a different way it will burn your household things and cause immense loss. So if money is spent to honour guests and those who just come and drop in at dinner time, and for the development of holy structures (Temples, Ashramas etc.) it will help to accumulate virtue. That itself is a great profit. If it is spent for eating meat, gambling and to tease others, it will bring sin. That itself is a great loss.

162. We see people wasting money for marriages, luxuries, prestige etc. We cannot say how much money is wasted for festivities, processions, dinners, flowers, silk clothes, cosmetics, perfumes etc. People spend thousands, towards feasts for relatives and friends but they don't like to spend a few rupees for poor feeding. They eat too much and spend money for medicines for its digestion but don't give even a pie to educational institutions or libraries. People waste money for smoking and luxuries but do not spare even one rupee to help others in need. In an illegal way they spend a lot of money towards court expenses but don't leave even a pie for the welfare of mankind.

163. We spend money on magazines which spoil our character but hesitate to buy and read magazines which promote moral and spiritual character. People buy books in haste which spoil their lives spending lots of money, but don't go forward to buy valuable books which promote and uplift their lives. We openly give charity to bad deeds and hesitate to do the same for good deeds.

164. O my son! Are the coarse clothes not enough to wear? Is ordinary food not enough to eat? Are earthen wares not sufficient to cook food? The less the luxuries the more the health for the body and mind. The learned people say that luxuries are the cause for diseases.

165. Under any circumstances don't speak lies. If you adhere to the truth, God will favour you. In ancient times Mahatmas (great soul's) attained beatitude (Siddhi) by strictly adhering to truth. Truth will help attain the path of salvation, easily and purify the mind. It leads you to the destination very quickly. Eternal bliss, everlasting peace, freedom from bondage are granted by it.

166. You could attain salvation by adhering to truth. All the principles shine inherently in truth. By truth even the movements of the sun and the moon could be controlled. There is nothing anywhere that cannot be achieved by truth.

167. Realize the greatness of chanting the Name of God. Choose, any divine names of Rama, Krishna, Siva etc. and chant it and do Japa with complete faith. The divine name alone is the support and protection for your life. The one that liberates you from all kinds of miseries is the Bhagavan Nama. God will easily be tied by devotion.

168. Repeat the divine name day and night. Keep complete and steadfast faith in his nama. By keeping good company, reading holy books, good discussions and other holy actions, the faith will grow stronger. You can realize God by constant Japa. This is the essence of all sastras, yogas and doctrines.

169. Anger is the deadliest enemy for a sadhaka. Notice the seeds of anger and cut off conversation. Try to keep silent for two or three hours in a day. Thereby you can easily win over anger. If it is not possible even then take bath with cold water. Meditate for 15 minutes. Then surely the heart will cool down and the anger will reduce.

170. Don't waste your energy in emotion. Concentrate on the Dharma you have chosen. Then you get gradually the concentration of mind, peace and renunciation. (Vyragyam)

171. Give up regard for the body which is perishable. All kinds of evils are caused by developing affection to this body. Body is like a cart. Protect this body just as you protect the cart. As you are different from the cart; realise that you are separate from the body. Renounce the attachment for the body completely. Think incessantly that I am the Brahman.

172. Some sadhus wander here and there aimlessly and waste their energy. They wander from place to place but do not do sadhana. By spending a lot of time in wasteful acts and sleep, people are deprived of benefits of this world and the other world too.

My son! Don't waste your precious time like them. Live at one place and meditate, Then you will attain Moksha (liberation) very soon.

173. Courage could achieve mighty deeds. A coward is unfit for spiritual path. Therefore, My son! Be courageous. Continue your journey of life with speed and fervour.

174. Destroy bad traits in you and promote good qualities. Don't detract from the principles under any difficult circumstances. Keep the spiritual goal in mind and try hard. Then you are sure to attain Moksha. (liberation)

175. Bid goodbye to wasteful mundane conversation Talk spiritual matters. Don't waste even a second.

176. Don't feel proud of your wealth, power and fame. All these are impermanent. They come and go. Remember your dharma and follow it. The above wealth etc. cannot protect you at the time of death. In such crucial time the one that can protect you is dharma (ideal)

177. It is easy to know the Dharmas but it is difficult to put them in practice. Child! Know the Dharma and practise it continuously to attain salvation.

178. Egotism envelopes the soul as a cloud covers the sun. It covers the soul that shines like the sun in you and makes it invisible. By sadhana when the cloud of egotism is removed the soul which shines like a brilliant light can be seen.

179. As the cloud that forms from the sun hides him, so also the egotism that comes from the soul hides it. What a wonder it is!

180. The egotism of caste, colour, wealth and learning suffers an individual. If this narrow egotism dissolves and vanishes in the broad soul then Mukti; becomes very easy, like a thing in your hand so to say, 'an Emblic myrobalan in one's palm'. (Karathalamalakam)

181. Some feel proud of themselves thinking, "I am a man of spiritual knowledge" This causes a lot of danger. It is highly difficult to remove it. One can't attain full wisdom as long as the least egotism exists.

182. O child! you will be happy, if you could eradicate egotism.
Then your happiness is infinite.
You will be happy in both the worlds. Are you not desirous of it? Do work to help others every day. Be always ready to help others in thought, word and deed.

183. Move in the society with harmony. Speak soft and sweet words. Set a limit to it. Don't forget that words are the cause of both friendship and enmity. Soft words develop friendship and harsh words enmity.

184. Association with wicked people will lead you to bad ways. The wicked never listen to good words. They don't allow others to listen and they try to create obstacles. They are engaged in decrying Mahatmas. They make fun of devotees. O child! Ignore such people and proceed ahead in the path of Dharma.

185. Take an oath that you would see God at this moment. Be courageous, and cut off the screen of maya with the sword of wisdom. Then you shall experience great and excellent direct knowledge of God. All your vasanas will be destroyed. All your karmas run away from you. All your doubts will be clarified. My Son! believe me and follow the spiritual path.

186. Interest in talking about worldly affairs should be reduced and interest in the spiritual knowledge should increase. Love of worldly affairs should decrease and Faith in God should develop. The love for food should decrease and concentration in meditation should develop. The Fancy for luxury should die and desire for yoga should grow; the affection for body should decrease, and concentration on the soul should stand firm. Craving for worldly pleasure should diminish and interest for meditation should intensify. Then you are sure to be a fortunate man.

187. At a time when your spiritual fervour intensifies the evil forces that resist progress join together and wage war against you. Then you should meet the challenge with tact and courage. If they fail to surrender destroy them with the sword of wisdom and proceed ahead.

188. In the battle of life, fight with the evil traits fearlessly. Don't be afraid of their show, uproar, pride, ostentation, cries of chivalry or heroism, conspiracy etc., and fight against them fearlessly with preservance. If you fight without any fear and with patience, you are sure to win at the end.

189. Mercy is the nature of man, Cruelity is the nature of Rakshasa. A man without mercy is a Rakshasa (Demon). When mercy is transformed into service it can give complete peace.

190. Speak truth. Untruth will never win victory. Truth is God. One who does not follow the path of truth will not attain prosperity.

191. Don't harass any body. Harassing is the quality of Rakshasas. Don't torture any living being with mind, word and deed. Remember as pain causes unrest to you, so also in case of others. This itself is the right royal path for mukti.

192. Always keep a cheerful face and peaceful mind. Remember that you can win both material and spiritual wealth by calmness.

There is nothing that a man of patience cannot attain.

193. Always keep association with good people. Thereby your mind becomes pure in a short time. You will acquire all good qualities. Mukti becomes easily visible like a fruit in ones hand.

194. Let your talk be polite and limited. Speak the most essential words only. Think well before you speak. Always speak meaningful and powerful words. Such words should be helpful to others.

195. To see God, one should do 'Sadhana'. When one cannot gain any material advantage without effort, can he gain spiritual advantage? Can we get oil out of gingily seeds with out grinding them? Can we get water without digging deep into the earth? Can we get butter without churning the curd? Can we get paddy home without working at least six months? Brother! Think well these things and try hard to know about Atman.

196. Pray to God both morning and evening. He is the only protector of all life. By his grace all dangers melt as the fog disappears by the rays of the rising sun. How infinite is His mercy!

197. The night is more suitable for meditation and Sadhana. But, then the sleep will be predominant. There is a means to overcome sleep. By eating limited food, the laziness decreases and thereby one gets interest and favourable atmosphere for meditation.

198. Listen to Vedanta in the presence of your great guru. The portions that you have listened should be recapitulated and taken into heart. Afterwards you devote all your energy to put them into practice. Believe firmly that practice is superior to theory. Awake! this moment itself is precious. Begin sadhanas.

199. So far you have wasted your life. For that it is not good to sit down and discouraged. Arise! take a vow to spend a pure life here after; keep truth and non-violence as your mottos and proceed further in life.

200. Realizing that the period you live in this world is very short, try hard to keep to the right way of life.

201. Association with the pious brings mukti. By association with the pious people the impossible becomes possible and one can achieve even the most difficult Brahma Padavi.

202. Don't be afraid. A courageous man can go across the forest of samsara and reach the city of Moksha. Adopt any religion, do any practice and reach God. If you can catch any ring in a chain you can reach its origin.

203. Happiness and sorrow are like spokes in a wheel. They follow one another. Everybody wishes to be happy but sorrow also comes to him. Have you ever realized the root of sorrow ? You wanted happiness, but have you not done deeds to achieve it.

204. Don't lose self-confidence. One who has self-confidence could love the world and serve it. One who has no self-confidence will become narrow minded envelopped by maya and ambition, move within the worldly things. O chivalrous man! ascend the chariot of Dharma whose wheels are truth and non-violence. Wear the armor of Jnana; with the sword of sacrifice put an end to the enemies like Kama (desire) Krodha (anger) and conquer the (kingdom of your soul), Atmasamrajyam.

205. The farmers leave away all other works and concentrate their mind on cultivation alone and gain the fruit. Unless a student concentrates his mind on studies and work hard can he acquire education? Unless a tradesman concentrates his mind will he be able to earn profit? Unless the builders of a building concentrate their mind on the work, will they be able to build it beautifully? Unless a painter keeps his mind steady on the painting will he be able to finish it nicely? Unless an orator keeps steady his mind while speaking can he please the audience? Now understand for yourself how much more concentration is essential for acquiring spiritual knowledge, when so much concentration is required for acquiring fine arts only. Sadhaka! do concentrate and pursue your spiritual thinking. Sacrifice your mind, word, deed, your senses, your intellect and everything you possess. Proceed ahead. Don't look back.

206. Estimate the extent to which your sadhana has progressed. Examine critically how your mind has been behaving. As a traveller thinks about the distance travelled by him and the distance yet to be travelled in a journey to reach his destination; so also you examine for yourself how much progress you have made and how much progress has yet to be made to realize the supreme being or Brahman and continue your Sadhana. This is known as the examination of soul or the churning of soul. (Internal quest)

207. Is there any importance in activities as eating food, drinking water and taking rest? There is prominence in tasks such as inventing a machine which is not possible for a common man, to swim across a large river successfully and to defeat a lion and make it act as you like. If you can conquer your mind it is conquering everything. So get up and begin sadhana to conquer the mind.

208. O Sadhaka! Before you go to bed every day try to recollect the things done by you that day.

How much time had I spent in meditation? How many good deeds had I done? How many wicked deeds had I done? How much time had I spent in vain conversation? How many times had I lied? How much time had I spent in reading or studying spiritual books? How much time had I spent in the good company in discussing valuable events? How much distance had I travelled in the true path? How many mountain like obstacles had I crossed? How much service had I done to the orphan? How far my mind had left fickleness and reached steadiness? How far it had stopped moving towards sensual pleasures? Think well all these things every day before you go to bed.
